P&C Board Appoints Editor for New Journal: Journal of Experimental Psychology: Applied

In 1995, APA will begin publishing a new journal, the Journal of Experimental Psychology: Applied. Raymond S. Nickerson, PhD, has been appointed as editor. Starting immediately, manuscripts should be submitted to

Raymond S. Nickerson, PhD
5 Gleason Road
Bedford, MA 01730.

The Journal of Experimental Psychology: Applied will publish original empirical investigations in experimental psychology that bridge practically oriented problems and psychological theory. The journal also will publish research aimed at developing and testing of models of cognitive processing or behavior in applied situations, including laboratory and field settings. Review articles will be considered for publication if they contribute significantly to important topics within applied experimental psychology.

Areas of interest include applications of perception, attention, decision making, reasoning, information processing, learning, and performance. Settings may be industrial (such as human–computer interface design), academic (such as intelligent computer-aided instruction), or consumer oriented (such as applications of text comprehension theory to the development or evaluation of product instructions).
